

O₂ NSPCC

Let's keep kids safe online

Be part of your kids' online world

We're great at preparing kids for their offline life, telling them not to talk to strangers, showing them how to cross the road or teaching them to ride a bike.

Many parents have less confidence in preparing them for their online life and the risks that may be involved.

O₂ and the NSPCC have joined forces to help all parents and families in the UK explore and understand the internet. As kids know it.

Through our partnership, support is at hand to help keep kids safe online. Because to kids, online life is real life. There's no distinction.

Know the fastest growing language in the UK?

It's about  you

From emojis and memes to Snapchat stories and Reddit, having regular conversations with your children about their online habits is the best way to encourage them to use the internet safely.

To help start those conversations you'll find lots of information on our website about:

Protecting kids online

What to share online

Online bullying

Strangers online

Downloading

Online addiction

App advice

Paying for extras

Devices

To learn more about your kids' digital world, how to enjoy it and protect them, go to o2.co.uk/nsppc

Or call our freephone helpline number on 0808 800 5002

Helpline opening times
Monday - Friday: 9am to 7pm
Saturday and Sunday: 10am to 6pm
Bank Holidays: 11am to 4pm

